We're back, again! The annual meeting of the Intelligent Transportation Society of New Mexico is returning as an in-person event and will be on October 5th, 2023, at the Hotel Albuquerque at Old Town. As with our past meetings, it holds great promise to its members and the transportation community at large.

We have a great agenda lined out that will cover a variety of topics related to the integration of current and new advanced technologies in transportation including:

- Current state of affairs in the realm of autonomous and connected vehicles,
- Artificial Intelligence use in the transportation arena,
- Electrification of the Fleet and Supporting Infrastructure,
- Use of Technologies for Commercial vehicle operations,
- Alternative uses of crowd-sourced data,
- Expanding the use of technologies for Fleet Management and O&M activities,
- ITS functions used for consolidated services, and innovative approaches to alternative uses of communications infrastructure,
- and more...

Our agenda will cover items happening on a global, national, regional, statewide, and even local front. Things have been happening and we want to share them with our members.

Additionally, there'll be ample opportunities to participate for prizes throughout the day.

Finally, one of the things worth noting the most is you: ITSNM values you as one of our stakeholders. Without you, our meeting wouldn't quite be complete. Please consider attending.

We hope you'll make it.
